INTRODUCTION

La Maremma is a true Tuscan farmhouse restored completely in 2016 composed by a main house and annex. The annex was newly built whilst the restoration of the main house.

The property, 250 mt on sea level, maintains the look of an authentic Tuscan house, with typical features of old farms of the Maremma, boasting however all the modern features.

Combining the seaview that is present from higher part of the property, and with typical Tuscan vines, olive groves with the Mediterranean sea, La Maremma offers an enchanting location perfect to enjoy all year round but of course it is simply perfect in summer time!

The renovation of the property has been carried out in the full respect of the environment that hosts the house: so the stones are taken from ruins around, the oak beams were the ones found on premises that have been carefully fully restores as well as for all the cotto tiles of the floors. The best practice of bioarchitecture has been used bringing the house to a very good level of self-sustainability without forgetting however all the comfort that a modern farmhouse should have. For this reason the key aspect of La Maremma is really this one: green oriented property with low impact on the environment combined with the elegant charm of Tuscan farmhouses.
